THE TEXT

① When Jordan Romero was a very young boy, he saw a painting hanging in his school showing the seven continents' highest mountains, including Mt Everest, and dreamt of going there. And sure enough, at the age of thirteen, he climbed it! Not only did Jordan climb Mt Everest, but he also climbed six of the seven highest points on earth.

② Jordan climbed Mt Everest with his father and his stepmom. He stated many times that his team was truly amazing and without their support, none of this would be possible. "At the top of Mt Everest, the feeling that rushed through me was overwhelming." He recalled " when I got to the top I raised my arms and pumped my fist. I was really proud that I accomplished my goal ”.

③ But what was the most difficult aspect of the journey? Kids News, Inc reporters wanted to know. Jordan replied: "We basically trained four years to summit Mt Everest. It was definitely most challenging because of the elevation and the lack of oxygen as you get to the top”.

④ Jordan uses his experience to inspire kids all over the world to be healthy, get outside and accomplish their dreams regardless of how impossible they may seem. " My big message to them is to find your own Everest. Whatever interests you, learn all you can about it, find experts to help you experience it, and make sure you're well prepared before you do anything," he emphasized.
